

Spring is in the Air!!

I LOVE Spring!

The birds are chirping, bees are buzzing, and spring flowers and spring romance are about to be in full bloom. Love is in the air and everyone is catching spring fever.

I hope you enjoy Spring and all of its benefits and have an amazing season!

Following is an interesting take on Spring!

Science of Spring Romance

In his book, Mammalian Reproductive Biology, Dr. Frank Bronson, a biologist from the University of Texas, agrees that spring fever in mammals is regulated by sunlight.

Bronson also says there are both direct and indirect photoperiodic cues that increase the amorous air this time of year.

Grossly simplified, the change in season brings more sunlight, better moods, and a better climate for romance in mammals, including humans.

Indirectly, the change in season means plants and insects will begin to flourish again, which has a positive effect up the food chain and creates a healthy environment suitable for procreation.

So whether it's bright long days, winter finally being over, or fresh spring food that put you in the mood for love, spring fever is out there and you could catch it.
